- The offers on the web for training and further education in medicine have been extended dramatically during the last years. In order to make it easier for you to find the right applications and resources we offer you this service. (Bitte klicken Sie auf die Flagge für die deutsche Version dieser Website.)

- The LRSMed offers search capabilities for multimediae learning software modules, which are deployed for free in the the World Wide Web. These modules have been described in different manners, e. g. the specialism and application type. After the successful search you can start the module directly.

- In addition you can use our full-text search, which has indexed all start pages of the resources contained in the LRSMed.

- 1704 e-learning software modules are described at the moment.

- (Do you know additional Medical E-Learning Software, you cannot find here? We can give you an Account to our system in order to add resources.) Currently, we do not activate new accounts!

- A review of the media collection is supported by the Medical Faculty Association (cf. http://www.mft-online.de/).
