EFAD sites

EFAD Extranet

The European Federation of the Associations of Dietitians receives financial support from the European Commission. The views expressed in this website do not necessarily reflect the official views of the EU institutions.

Co-funded by the Health Programme of the European Union

Welcome to the EFAD web site, providing information and representation to over 30,000 European dietitians.

A dietitian is a person with a qualification in Nutrition & Dietetics recognised by national authority. The dietitian applies the science of nutrition to the feeding and education of groups of people and individuals in both health and disease.

Survey on the Use of the European Dietetic Competences (EDC)

It is 3 years since EFAD adopted the EDC and this survey will investigate how the competences are being used throughout Europe. The survey is in English, but translations into Spanish, French, German, Polish, Portuguese and Italian are available to help you understand the questions. Please complete the online survey before 31 October 2012. More details and the link to the survey can be found here. Please also encourage your colleagues and students to complete the survey.
