The Polish Journal of Sports Medicine (Polish J Sport Med) is a peer-reviewed medical journal publishing original scientific papers based on authorial research, as well as review and opinion articles and case studies involving the broadly conceived interdisciplinary speciality of sports medicine. The Advisory Board includes specialists from many countries around the world, representing various medical specialties, a guarantee of the high scientific quality of the papers published.

Polish J Sport Med is published monthly, and is also available in electronic form at www.medsport.pl. Polish J Sport Med is indexed in Index Copernicus (www.cisi.org/cisi), and also in Sport Discus and Sports Documentation Monthly Bulletin. Papers are published in either Polish or English, with abstracts and key words in both languages. The editors of Polish J Sport Med endorse the principles embodied in the Helsinki Declaration and expect that all research involving humans has been performed in accordance with these principles. For animal experimentation reported in the journal, it is expected that investigators will have observed the Interdisciplinary Principles and Guidelines for the Use of Animals in Research, Testing, and Education issued by the New York Academy of Sciences' Adhoc Committee on Animal Research. All human and animal studies must have been approved by the chief investigator's institutional review board. Authors are requested to include a copy of the relevant documentation with the submitted manuscript.
